Select Tales.

A Wedding in a Garrison.
BY THE AUTHOR OF 'SOLWYN,' 'TALES OF THE MOORS,' &c.

"It will be long, indeed," said Uncle Philip, when his glow of gratified British pride subsided; "longer than even I have lived, and that is saying a good deal, before any one who shared in them can forget the horrors of the memorable siege of G—. There is something in defensive warfare at all times irksome and dispir-iting to the feelings of Britons; and even where successful, as ours eminently was it wants the excitement, the romance, the chivalrous feeling, of attack and onset. Then there are always, in a besieged city, horrors enough to appal a stout heart, and privations to melt a feeling one.
Bombs falling perhaps in the midst of a church full of women, or hospital filled with dying; provisions always ten prices, even if to be had for money, and in some sad extremities, hunger perishing with her lap full of gold. The faces of those even most exempt from hardships are sure to grow long and thin at last.— One general feeling of imprisonment and degradation robs young cheeks of bloom, and older ones of confidence; and well it is if private grief and misery mingle not with public calamity. Much, much there was of both at G—, both during and after the siege; yet my memory dwells with sad tenacity, on a little domestic tragedy connected with its commencement; perhaps because we had not then 'supped full with horrors,' perhaps because we are born to sympathise more deeply in the woes and errors of humanity than in scenes of physical suffering.

Among the picked but scanty garrison of G—, you could not find a braver man than Captain Osborne. He was one of those soldiers, 'sans peur et sans re-proche,' who might have lived in the age of Bayard, and defied him to the strife of honour. I know and loved him as he deserved; and next to one fair daughter, who was all his earthly treasure, I believe I ranked highest in his affection and esteem. It was soon proved; for, exhausted by fatigue in the construction of defences preparatory to the siege, this gallant officer was not destined to participate either in its hardships or its laurels.
He died some days ere the place was finally invested, and while escape from his devoted precincts was yet safe and practicable. His dying cares were for his country and his daughter; the former he had served while life remained; the latter he sought, even in death, to place beyond the reach of danger; nay, I could fancy him reconciled to an event that would release her from a post of perilous duty.—
'Go home to England, my dear child,' he faltered anxiously, with eyes alternately fixed on Ellen and myself. You, Merton, will take care that she leaves this fatal town—it will soon be no place for females and he who might have wanted power or inclination to bid her from him while in life, in death may claim to be obeyed.

I could not see the face of Ellen as her sobs re-echoed the dying mandate, for it was buried in her father's pillow; but her voice uttered no responsive promise to soothe the ear of death, and when the soldier's muffled drum had ceased to roll, and their brief requiem had been sung over the brave, I learned the reason why.

One tie that anchored Ellen to the beleaguered walls was severed, but another and a secret one remained. She loved, and was beloved again, by one for whom she would have braved peril in a form more dire than all the woes of Troy. Yet was he but another Paris—vain, fickle, and effeminate; a soldier not of fame, but fashion; one whom, if her father did not warn her to avoid, it was because he never dreamed she could be thus ignobly won.

But the young maiden and old soldier saw with different eyes. Deloraine had a face that might have served a nobler mind as index, and a form martial enough to shame a host of unpretending heroes.
He had the gift too, call it as you will that fortune lavishes so oft on worthless minions—the gift to cozen woman—the charm, which, like Titania's potent juice, can make a waking dreamer worship folly and dote upon a counterfeit.

Availing himself first of Osborne's professional avocations, and latterly of his declining health, Deloraine, but recently arrived from England, made rapid way in Ellen Osborne's favour. Bred up as she had been, and with, alas! no mother's precepts of a confined garrison circle, amid grey-headed veterans and unpolished soldiers of fortune, the gay, young, aristocratic Englishman, seemed doubly fascinating in her eyes; and long confinement in a transport having at least as great effect on his, the passion soon became reciprocal.

Her father's serious illness threw it in the shade; but with his fond injunction to depart, and the cold grasp that suffered ere she could relinquish it, rushed the sudden conviction, that to go was misery; to stay, perhaps, no longer consistent with propriety. In her despair she opened her mind to me. I pity for a young and bleeding heart, I hinted, perhaps more gently than I ought, my doubts of him on whom her hopes were anchored. I promised to protect and shield, if possible, from injury, the daughter of my departed friend.

Yet feeling how soon the pledge might be out-weighted by higher duties, I strongly urged her, to return to England.

During the first few days of privileged mourning, visitors were necessarily excluded; nor did the state of things in G— leave time or room for idle ceremonials. But Ellen's eyes sparkled through tears when I returned to ask her resolution; for Deloraine had written, as men write when using words to veil the lack of deeds from those who think them still the same. Strange that a few more years, a grey hair more or less, should make that sound so hollow which in youth's credulous ear can seem the music of the spheres!

I read in Deloraine's letter that he loved Ellen to madness, not to matrimony; that, coldly selfish, he sought to trifle with rather than to seduce her; to keep her in his power, like the spared mouse, for long and harrowing suspense, rather than by precipitate measures abridge to himself the pleasures either of pursuit or triumph. I might have contented myself with watching sedulously his manoeuvres, and counteracting them with all a parent's vigilance; but I was soon, I knew, to mount a far different and less pleasing guard, while the humbler military rank and inefficient character of De-loraine might leave him leisure to achieve his civil conquest undisturbed.

I was saved the painful task of first remonstrance, by a general order, commanding the departure of all useless persons unconnected by the nearest ties to officers composing the garrison. This order clearly embraced Ellen; and that which, while still optional, she shuddered but to think of, became, except on one supposition, inevitable. She threw herself into my arms and wept; for even she could doubt if Deloraine would purchase the right to detain her with his hand.

He, however, could not brook to see her snatched so unexpectedly from him, and agreeably surprised us both by flying as soon as the order reached him, to claim her as his bride. They had not met since her sad loss; and if, in my sober eyes, her beauty was enhanced both by the reality and garb of woe, it evidently was not less so in a lover's. Poor Ellen! I think when, with her fine tall fragile
floods of golden hair, set off by her black dress, she stood before us, smiling love's radiant smile through nature's filial tears, I never saw a creature more enchanting.

Deloraine saw, by the manner of both, that in the absence of a natural parent, she had found one in me. He therefore affected to consult me in the dilemma to which he was reduced by the inopportune illness of the garrison chaplain, and the difficulty of finding a substitute in the three days which alone intervened before the inexorable fiat of the governor would separate them, perhaps for ever. The case was a cruel one. G— certainly did not afford another Englishman in regular orders, besides the one now lying delirious in the fever hospital; and unless the wife of Deloraine before the sailing of the fatal transport, Ellen must, per force, accompany it to England.

In these perplexing circumstances, De-loraine's idea was one as likely to find favour with a young impassioned mind as to startle and repel a more experienced one. G— then abounded with catholic priests, some of whom might possibly be bribed or influenced to solemnize a marriage; but I greatly distrusted and loathed this novel-like expedient. I did not reckon every youth a Lovelace, or every monk a Schedoni; but I knew 'men were deceivers ever,' and I urged—tenderly, authoritatively, urged Ellen to be gone. 'If Deloraine loves you as you think, my child, he will come honorably and claim you when this short strife is over; if otherwise, you will live to count escape a blessing. Why would you risk, upon a questionable rite, the happiness and reputation of your future life? But Ellen had the instinctive doubt of her lover's constancy, though not the rational one of his sincerity. The 'if' I placed before her was more dreadful than a thousand certainties. To stay and marry might be rash; to go and meet no more, perhaps, was—in her present mood—to die!

The priest was sought and found; raised scruples, sold them, and was ready to officiate. At first, I determined to withhold my sanction and presence from a ceremony my judgment utterly condemned; but suddenly reflecting of what importance as a witness I might be in case of need, I came unexpected, and on one side, I believe, undesired, to the scene.
It was an ominous yet solemn one.— The priest, whose tenets forbade the exercise of his sacred office in unconse-crated precincts, yet who durst not bring openly a heretic couple to a Catholic altar, chose, for safety and convenience, a subterranean chapel in the rock, used in times of Moorish persecution, and known but to a few religious, I am not superstitious; yet the damp earthy smell of this sepulchral vault—its darkness rendered visible by one dim glimmering lamp—the perjured priest, and perhaps no less perjured bridegroom, and fond believing victim—all made an impression not soon to be forgotten. Ellen, from motive of natural and pardonable superstition, had thrown aside her deep mourning for the ceremony, yet with such haste and negligence, that relics of it peeped strangely from beneath her bridal garb.

The long rite, at length, was over; the certificate, at my request, duly signed by all present, including an English servant of poor Osborne's, and Deloraine, in triumph, carried home his prize. The vessel sailed for England with her freight of fugitives; the siege commenced in earnest, and all was general bustle and individual exertion.

The first drawback on Ellen's intended happiness, was the frequent exposure to peril and fatigue of one whose temper and habits fitted him for neither. When others laughed at, nay, even courted, hardships, this sullen son of affluence shrank in ill-humour or disgust.

But woman's love and patience smiled on Ellen's brow; and sure I am, if undiscovered she could have donned his soldier's cloak, and mounted the dark and stormy guard for him, she would have done so with unhesitating devotion.

I saw them seldom. I could not at first, even for Ellen's sake, love Delorairie; & for her sake I should have learned ere long to hate him, had I not, before the conclusion of the siege, received a desperate wound, and remained in hospital till all was over, and the exhausted garrison relieved by fresh troops. Deloraine came to see me ere he sailed, and brought a billet full of love and gratitude from Ellen. I sought, in vain, in its tone for joy, and should have been happy had it breathed content.

My regiment went to India. I shared in many a hard-fought contest with our then formidable Indian foes, and proved their tender mercies in the far famed dangions of Seringapatam. When the first bitterness of this virtual death was past, it is well-known that courage and constitutional cheerfulness rendered the lot of most of us supportable. We were generally contented—sometimes even gay; but while we bore thus wonderfully, to ourselves, an apparently hopeless confinement, little did I dream how fatal its protraction had proved to one whom I did not even there forget.

The tale of Ellen has been told for centuries; yet their hoary stamp readers it not the more impressive to the reckless ear of youth. Deloraine ceased to be a lover; and, in so doing, felt that to cease to be a husband was not difficult. The priest was out of reach—transported, perchance, on wings of gold, to a rich convent in Peru. The English soldier present at the marriage was dead; and I alone remained, a witness formidable to the one party, and precious to the other.
Ellen, with the powerlessness of utter despair, and painful memory of my prophetic warnings, would have forborne to appeal to me, but she had still distant relations interested by pride in establishing her marriage. They wrote, and wrote to me; and it was not till the letters were returned as those of one over whom the grave had well-nigh closed, that Ellen knew how unconsciously her heart had clung to me as her protector and her champion.

In Hyder's dungeon, Deloraine defied me; cast Ellen wholly off; and fortified himself in guilty breach of vows, by interesting, through a second marriage, a whole noble family in the annihilation of all traces of the first. I was released at length, and re-appeared among my English friends as one arisen from the grave.
If to some of these my hollow cheeks and lean gaunt limbs gave an unwelcome shock, it was slight to that I felt when sent for by the dying Ellen.

I should have known her voice—low, sweet, and musical—and traced a heavenly likeness to her father in her mournful smile! All else had vanished; the tall form was bent and wasted—the fair skin ghastly pale—the golden hair thinned, and not by time, but sorrow. There was a mightier change! The thoughtless wilful novice, rushing upon life, was grown a grief-taught heavenward pilgrim.
I talked to her of her rights, as soldiers talk, and swore I would assert them with my life. "Nay, Colonel Merton," said the gentle injured one, "speak not of rights to her whose only lawful title was to the years of suffering her rashness purchased. It was mine to sow the wind and reap the whirlwind; but the storm is spent, the haven almost gained. I waited for your coming, that you might sanction, with your presence, one act more of submission to a higher power, and Christian charity towards one richer and fairer, yet I fear not much happier, than I; but who, long taught to tremble at my name, and torn pale at the sound of yours, cannot know peace till this exists no more.
So saying, she took the certificate, which I had been examining, and which lay between us on the table, cast up her eyes in meek surrender of all earthly hopes, and placed the fatal paper on the flames.

"I have no child, Merton," said she, answering my look of petrified amazement, "to upbraid me with this purely personal sacrifice. She, I am told, has smiling in-nocents to profit by it; on them she may now gaze without a pang; and he released from hated vows and aching fears, may grow, perhaps, a faithful husband and fond father. To me he can be nothing but an instrument of mental chastisement and countrite self-abasement. I have forgiven, and would fain forget him. I am now again Osborne's friendless daughter Colonel Merton. You closed my darling parent's eyes in happy ignorance of future woe; you will, I hope, close mine in blest forgetfulness of past misfortunes. The chapel of San Roque, its stolen vows, and murky air—my motley trappings of grief and joy—what where they but unerring omens of a rashlychosen lot? It has been quickly run, and fatally for time—not without profit, let me humbly hope, for eternity. God bless you, mine own, and my father's friend.— I shall not be a tax upon your kindness long!"

It was even so; and Ellen Osborne died at five-and-twenty, the worn and wasted victim of misplaced confidence and headstrong passion. Nor was retribu-tive justice idle. Deloraine, too, died young—a martyr to remorse—alone unloving and unloved by his proud new connections; who, while they tolerated, for his children's sake, the treason, felt for the traitor merited abhorrence. He sent for me; and asked me, with his dying breath, to lay him at the feet of Ellen."

Warren Baptist Association.

The seventy-sixth anniversary of this venerable body was held on Wednesday and Thursday, the 13th and 14th inst., at Warren, the ancient and hospitable town which gave its name to the association. The annual introductory sermon was preached by Rev. James K.
Stone, of Wickford. The text was Gal. i. 8. "But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed."

After the sermon, the association was organized by the appointment of Rev.
Joseph Smith as moderator, and Rev.
James R. Stone as clerk. The afternoon of Wednesday was occupied by the reading of the annual epistles from the churches.

The letters exhibited, in general, a healthy, settled state of prosperity throughout the churches. There has been less religious excitement than in former years; yet about 400 persons have been added to the churches by baptism during the year. On Wednesday evening the Rev. Dr. Sharp, of Boston, President of the Baptist Board of Foreign Missions, preached an interesting and instructive missionary sermon, from Ps. cxxvi. 3. "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." It consisted principally of a review of the early history of missionary efforts among the Baptists, chiefly in the fatherland, and was rich in biographical sketches of the venerated Carey, Thomas, Andrew Fuller, Sutcliff, Ryland, and Pearce, the principal promoters of the English Baptist mission to India. A handsome collection was taken up at the close of the sermon in aid of foreign missions. Previous to the adjournment of the association, on Thursday, eight or nine churches requested letters of dismission, for the purpose of forming a new association.— These churches were mostly in the north part of the State; and one of the Providence churches, and perhaps more, will in all probability unite with them.
Delegates from these churches will meet at Cumberland Hill in about a month, to agree upon a name for the new association, and to take other preliminary steps. It will probably be called, either the Roger Williams or the Providence Association. This important step arose from no difference of feeling, or want of harmony, but simply from a growing conviction that the association was too large, and that the interests of religion in our State would be better promoted by two moderately sized associations, than by one unwelldefined body consisting of nearly 40 churches and about 7000 members. It will be only adding one to the daughters (already numerous) of this venerable mother of nearly all the Baptist Associations in New England—the Warren Association. May the cordial harmony which has ever subsisted between her and her numerous progeny in other States, ever be maintained between the mother and the daughter, while laboring side by side for the spiritual welfare of Rhode Island.

Christianity is the manifestation and inculcation of universal love. The great teaching of Christianity is that we must recognize and respect human nature in all its forms, in the poorest, most ignorant, most fallen. We must look beneath "the flesh," to "the spirit." The spiritual principle in man is what entitles him to our brotherly regard.—Channing.

Georgia Pine Apples.—We were shown yesterday a fine specimen of this delicious fruit, from the garden of John Stoddard, Esq. at Dawfaskie island.— This enterprising gentleman has a young plantation of Pine Apples, and he feels confident that the next year will prove conclusively that this exotic can be easily domesticated in the open air in our vicinity and attain perfection in flavor and fragrance here, as well as in the West Indies, requiring no more attention than several of the other delightful fruits usually cultivated in this region.

16 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Caledonia.

The steamship Caledonia arrived at Boston, Wednesday morning, at a quarter past six o'clock, with Liverpool dates to the 5th instant.

The Caledonia left Liverpool on the 5th inst., at 6 o'clock, p. m.—arrived at Halifax on the morning of the 18th, and left same afternoon at 1 p. m. She has made her passage in 14 days 11 3/4 hours.
She brought 18 passengers to Halifax, and 70 to Boston from Liverpool, and took 9 additional passengers from Halifax to Boston. Mr. Macready is among the passengers.

The commercial news is very important and cheering. The state of trade in the manufacturing districts has greatly improved. Cotton has advanced, and the sales have been very large, being for the last week 63,000 bales, half on speculation. Unfavorable accounts from this country of the new crop, have contributed towards this advance, although the stock in Liverpool was very heavy. Trade had also improved in the iron districts, and generally, commercial affairs were a more encouraging aspect. The favorable aspect of business in the United States is assigned as one reason of this change. In the money market there was no alteration.

Parliament was prorogued on the 24th of August by the Queen in person.

The Queen had made a visit to the King of the French at his chateau d'Eu.— The Duke d'Annoles and Prince de Join-ville came to England to convey the invitation from Louis Philippe.

The ex-Regent Espartero had arrived in England, where he was received with the utmost attention by all parties. His reception by the Queen was most favorable. Among the distinguished personages who had called to pay their respects to him, was the Duke of Wellington, who inscribed his name on the visiting-book as Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington et Captain General Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo.

The agitation in Ireland is kept up with the same intensity and the rent pournais with the same liberality. O'Connell has announced his plan for an Irish Parliament, in which, while asserting the most unbounded loyalty to the Queen, he declares that the act of union is unconstitutional and not binding upon the people of Ireland. The speech of the Queen, upon the prorogation, expressed very decidedly her determination to maintain the union.
O'Connell says that she was compelled upon softening some of the expressions.

The prospects of the harvest are more favorable, and it is believed that the crop will not be much under an average.

The King of Hanover has returned to his own dominions. The report that he was about to abdicate the throne in favor of his son is contradicted. He has been received with great attention by the nobility of England. With the people of England he is very odious.

There had been some meetings of the sailors in Liverpool, on account of an advance.

There were reports that Queen Victoria would visit Paris, but it was confidently said that she would return immediately to Brighton.

It is understood that the heir presumptive of the throne of Denmark is to marry a Russian Princess. The Russian ambassador is said to be very influential at the court of Denmark.

The opera house at Berlin has been destroyed by fire. It had stood just a century.

The petition of Sir Augustus D'Este, to be allowed to succeed to the titles of his late father, the Duke of Sussex, has been sent to the House of Lords by the Queen. Sir Augustus D'Este is the son of the Duke of Sussex by his first wife, Lady Augusta Murray. The marriage was not legal according to the law of Parliament, which requires the consent of the crown to the marriage of a member of the royal family.

Father Matthew had been received with great attention in England. He had dined and breakfasted with many of the most distinguished personages, among others the Duke of Wellington.

The coroner's inquest on the bodies of the men lost in the Pegasus, returned a verdict of death from neglect of the officers and men on the lookout. A demand of £100 on each body was decreed.

The Queen's journey to France has excited no little interest on both sides of the Channel. Some of the Paris papers look upon it with any thing but satisfaction. This is the first occasion for upwards of three centuries that the sovereigns of the two countries have met under similar circumstances. The last meeting, of a like nature, was that between Henry VIII. and Francis I., on the field of the Cloth of Gold, which was followed two years subsequently by a war between the same monarchs. During Victoria's stay Eu will be the scene of great splendor.— Louis Philippe, who superintends the most minute arrangements, seems bent upon giving his guest not merely a friendly but an enthusiastic reception.

Commercial Summary.—The last few days have witnessed uncommon animation in the Liverpool Cotton Market, produced by the unfavorable accounts which came to hand on Wednesday, by the Acadia, respecting the new crop. On the arrival of the news also at Havre, the cotton market was thrown into great activity. A considerable advance has been made, and an enormous amount of business has been transacted. Apart from this, however, business generally wears a more healthy appearance than it has done for some time past, and confidence is reviving.

During the last week cotton, to the enormous quantity of 63,000 bales, has changed hands—half on speculation, the other half to the trade. Prices, in some instances, have advanced as much as a farthing, in every instance an eighth per lb., which, making every allowance for the news brought by the steamer, is considered somewhat extraordinary, when there is at present on hand a stock very little short of a million of bales.

Contemporaneous with the Acadia's advice, the manufacturing districts have been experiencing a revival, and both circumstances have transpired to produce that extraordinary excitement in the market which has just been witnessed. The trade of Manchester is, at the present, in a state of greater activity than it has been for some years past; and all the monthly circulars published in that town describe the activity to be general. But the improvement is not confined to cotton alone —the Woolen, Iron, and other trades have received an impetus. Foreign orders from various parts of the world are coming in; but what is still better, as indicating a permanent improvement, the home trade is in a far more prosperous state.

This favorable state of affairs is the result of extensive orders from Russia, India, the Levant, and Germany, while the accounts of English manufactured goods received from the United States, especially the southern parts, are said to be encouraging.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.—House of Lords, August 24.—The House of Lords was opened to day at a little after twelve o'clock, and immediately a considerable number of ladies were admitted, and occupied the benches usually appropriated to the Peers. Several seats were reserved for Peeresses, who came rather late. Long before two o'clock the strangers' gallery, the two small side galleries, intended for Peers, and the body of the House, were completely filled, and chiefly with ladies; several very young ones were present. The place appropriated to the Foreign Ministers, on the left hand of the throne, was also filled before two o'clock. We noticed the Russian and Prussian Ambassadors, the Belgian Charge d'Affairs, the American Minister (Mr. Everett), and we believe the whole corps diplomatique were present. If any were absent, no vacant places were left, and more room must have been provided had more arrived. Her Majesty then read the following speech:

My Lords and Gentlemen,
The state of public business enables me to close this protracted session, and to release you from further attendance of your parliamentary duties.

I thank you for the measures you have adopted for enabling me to give full effect to the several treaties which I have concluded with foreign powers.

I have given my cordial assent to the bill which you presented to me for increasing the means of spiritual instruction in populous parishes, by making a portion of the revenues of the church available for the endowment of additional ministers.

I confidently trust that the wise and benevolent intentions of the Legislature will be aided by the zeal and liberality of my subjects, and that better provision will thus be made for public worship, and for pastoral superintendence in many districts of the country.

I view with satisfaction the passing of an act for removing doubts respecting the jurisdiction of the Church of Scotland in the admission of ministers, and for securing to the people and to the courts of the church the full exercise of their respective rights.

It is my earnest hope that this measure will tend to restore religious peace in Scotland, and to avert the dangers which have threatened a sacred institution, of the utmost importance to the happiness and welfare of that part of my dominions.

I continue to receive from all foreign powers assurances of their friendly disposition, and of their earnest desire for the maintenance of peace.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the readiness and liberality with which you have voted the supplies for the current year. It will be my constant object to combine a strict regard to economy, with the consideration which is due to the exigencies of the public service.

In some districts of Wales the public peace has been interrupted by lawless combinations and disturbances unconnected with political causes. I have adopted the measures which I deemed best calculated for the repression of outrage, and for the detection and punishment of the offenders.

I have at the same time directed an inquiry to be made into the circumstances which led to insubordination and violence in a part of the country usually distinguished for good order and willing obedience to the law.

I have observed, with the deepest concern, the persevering efforts which are made to stir up discontent and disaffection among my subjects in Ireland, and to excite them to demand a repeal of the legislative union.

It has been, and ever will be, my earnest desire to administer the government of that country in a spirit of strict justice and impartiality, and to co-operate with Parliament in effecting such amendments in the existing laws, as may tend to improve the social condition, and to develop the natural resources of Ireland.

From a deep conviction that the legislative union is not less essential to the attainment of these objects, than to the strength and stability of the empire, it is my firm determination, with your support, and under the blessing of Divine Providence, to maintain inviolate that great bond of connection between the two countries.

I have forborne from requiring additional powers for the contraction of designs hostile to the concord and welfare of my dominions, as well from my unwillingness to distrust the efficacy of the ordinary law, as from my reliance on the good sense and patriotism of my people, and on the solemn declaration of Parliament in support of the legislative union.

I feel assured that those of my faithful subjects who have influence and authority in Ireland, will discourage, to the utmost of their power, a system of pernicious agitation, which disturbs the industry and retards the improvement of that country, and excites feelings of mutual distrust and animosity between different classes of my people.

Considerable excitement appears to have been produced in France by the firing of an English cutter at New Foundland, upon a fishing boat which had been driven by stress of weather within the English jurisdiction, by which the owner of the boat, who was accompanied in it by his two children, was killed. The cutter boarded the boat and carried it into the English port of Lunenburg, and on the following day the officer sent the two children home, together with their father's corps, with a letter to the Governor of St. Pierre, apologising for what had occurred, and stating that he had fired only for the purpose of frightening the fishermen, and warning them that they were trespassing, and not with the intention of injuring them. The French Government sent an officer to inquire into the facts.

In Wales the proceedings of Rebecca and her daughters are assuming a more destructive character. Large meetings of farmers and others had been held for the peaceful statement of grievances.

dominions on the 1st inst.

On the 23d of August, at a large public meeting at Dublin, Mr. O'Connell brought forward his plan of a repeal of the Union.
It is a document embracing nine articles, the first of which is an acknowledgement of the prerogatives of the Queen, her heirs and successors, and declaring allegiance to her. The second is an acknowledgment of the right of the hereditary peerage of Ireland. Subsequent articles provide for the restoration of the Irish House of Commons, to consist of 300 members, of whom 173 shall be representatives of counties, and 127 representatives of towns. The members are distributed according to the population of the counties and towns. The vote to be by ballot. The plan is to be carried into effect "according to recognized law and strict constitutional principle."

SPAIN.—The Revolutionary Ministers carry all before them in the capital.— The Queen gave a grand banquet at the Palace of the Prado on the 11th ult., in commemoration of the triumph of the "national cause." All the Ministers were present at it except S. Lopez, who was indisposed. The Queen was very gay, and the Infanta was "most gracious," and evinced the greatest fondness towards her sister. The evening was terminated by a ball, at which Gen. Serrano had danced with the Queen and General Narvaez with the Infanta.

While on board the steamer Betis, on the 30th July, Espartero had issued a protest against the recent proceedings in Spain. It is drawn up by the Minister of the Interior as a report of what the General "said," in the presence of the principal persons who accompanied him; by whom it is attested.

By a decree dated the 16th, government had declared Don Baldomero Espartero, and those who signed his protest, deprived of their titles, ranks, employments, and decorations.

In the provinces all did not go smoothly. An order of the government, dated the 10th, interdicted the assembly of a "General Junta," which was to take place at Guernica on the 15th. The Junta at Barcelona had again declared itself "supreme;" and Prim, who had arrived there to assume the governorship, in vain endeavored to conciliate the Exaltado majority. Blood had been shed, one man having been killed in an affray with the troops, and the Junta had withdrawn to Atarazas. The discreet Echalecu, who had so long refused to recognize the revolution, now held the council in the name of the de facto government, and refused to recognize the "Supreme Junta." The Saragossa Junta insisted on the establishment of a Central Junta at Madrid. It had displaced the Judges and the President of the Court, who differed from it.

A great fire occurred on the 19th of August, near London Bridge, which was followed on the succeeding day by three others, one of which was attended by the loss of no less than three human lives.
The St. Olaves Church, the Shot Tower and Telegraph, and several other valuable buildings were consumed. Considerable damage was done to the shipping in the river. While the St. Olaves Church was burning, the rite of matrimony was solemnized in the church, and the hands of two couples joined by Rev. Mr. Kenney, the vicar of the church, while the galleries were still burning, and the engines pouring in streams of water. The total loss of property by the fire was calculated to be between £70,000 and £80,000.

At the request of some of our subscribers we copy the following from the "Rhode Islander"—

Ireland and her Enemies.

There was a very spirited and nu-merously attended Repeal Meeting held in our Town Hall on Saturday evening last. The Hon. Dutree J. Pearce in the Chair. Mr. Thomas McGee, of Boston, after handling with much address and logic the relative merits of the Repeal and continuance of the Union, made an eloquent digression in speaking of the opponents of the former case, which we give in substance as follows:—

"It is useless," said the speaker, "to disguise the fact that there are men opposed to the cause of domestic legislation for Ireland. Her enemies are numerous in England, but there we are wont to look for them, they are not numerous in Scotland, but the prejudices of education and the differences of national character may account for this. But there are, likewise, men, born on the soil of Ireland, who would vainly attempt to arrest your arms stretched forth to feed and clothe and protect their countrymen! Aye, it is a humiliating and convincing proof of the extent to which the treacherous spice of human nature, fired by personal pique, may lead some men. They have been made ingrates by their false and baseless love of leadership and consequence.
Out on them, they are illegitimate children of the soil! And Ireland is not answerable for the depravity of their disposition merely because they drew their first breath from her atmosphere. They can no more be accounted for than that the deadly Uper should flourish in the fertile Earth of Ceylon—than that the Crocodile should whine in hypocritical sympathy amidst the rosy valleys on the banks of the Ganges, or the poisonous serpent coil himself around the aromatic plants and gorgeous flowers on the sea-coasts of South America.

But you, who, born on her soil, have inherited with your parentage Irish hearts and feelings, you are the only true natives of Ireland. It is not enough that a man's birth is cast by chance in America or Ireland to make him in reality an Irishman or American; they must possess a desire to share her disgrace as well as be participators in her glory; they must be ever ready to acknowledge their origin, no matter in what light the character of that country is produced; in a word, they should be willing to exclaim with a certain illustrious orator "my country, with all thy faults I love thee still." You, who have inherited from her that physical power which is the instrument of your good fortune, should return her a slender moiety of regard in acknowledgement of the ability she has given you to bear the burden of your migratory lives. Recollect that Ireland's destiny is almost fulfilled—the sands in the glass of the Agitator are nearly all run out—in a few months —mark me, I say months—her liberty will be secured, and then you who have stood by her in the trial will be participators in the glory and honor of the triumph. Then you will have leisure to turn upon her undutiful children and taunt them with their guilty indifference or open hostility; as it is, we have too much to do to mind the filthy fellows; let them live; let them attempt as often as they choose to impede our glorious labors; we can afford to smile at their futile and impotent degeneration so long as we see the metallic proofs of better hearts on the table, and behold so many honest, merry faces smiling proudly and with joy around us."

"Erin, oh, Erin, thy winter is past And the hopes that lived through it shall blossom at last."

The contribution taken up, we are informed, was about $50.

DROWNED.—On Thursday afternoon last, a small boat belonging to Portsmouth, R. I., containing three men, whose names were Alexander Loney, John Caigan and James McCarran, natives of Ireland, was upset near Pop-squash Point, in this harbor. Loney was drowned, and the other two, nearly exhausted, were picked up by the steamboat Iolas, one of whom, (Caigan) died on board the steamboat shortly after he was picked up. McCarran recovered.— Loney has left three children. They had been at work at Eddy's Coal Mine in Portsmouth, and came to this place to purchase some clothing, and were upset on their return home. The boat was probably upset through bad management.
Bristol Phoenix.

Dismal Swamp.—Almost every body associates with the name of this famous swamp, snakes, noxious reptiles of all kinds, and gaunt disease. A writer in the Express says it is dismal enough to look at, but, "low as the country is, and sickly as one would take it to be, fevers and fever-ague are unknown. Indeed, the people of the swamp consider the water a sure preventive of diseases, and what is singular enough, I am told that other persons from other and sickly parts of the country, resort to the swamp, for health and protection."

The water which fills the swamp, is of a dark red color, is drank by a few inhabitants in the swamp, and is said to be very healthful, being strongly impregnated with juice from the roots of the juniper and sasaparilla, &c. which grow in great abundant; in short a sort of compound fluid extract, is defused instead of being concentrated.—[Releigh Register.]

Mr. Webster arrived at Albany on Tuesday on his way to attend the Agricultural Fair at Rochester.

MAINE ELECTION.—Returns from 281 towns for Governor, give Anderson (Dem) 26,141, Robinson, (Whig.) 18,639, Appleton, (Ab.) 5,317. Kavanagh, (Dem) 3,066. The plurality against Anderson is 891. It is probable there is no choice by the people.

VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.—The Richmond Whig, classifies the members elect of the Virginia Legislature as follows:—

Senate.	House.
Whigs 12	Whigs 59
Van Burenites 12	Van Burenites 48
Calhounites 8	Calhounites 27

NEW HOTEL.—We understand that the Townsend lot on the Hill, situated on the east side of the road, opposite the residence of G. Jones Esq., has been purchased by a company, with the intention of immediately erecting suitable buildings, for a spacious Hotel. We learn that the host of the new House, will be Mr. John G. Weaver, who for the season past, has been favourably known as one of the partners in the Bellevue House.

The opposition Steamer Curtis Peck has been withdrawn from this route, and put on the Bridgeport route, connecting with the Housatonic Rail Road.

The old line for the present will run the Mohegan to this place three times per week from Stonington, to convey passengers to and from the Massachusetts, in which boat they pass the Sound. (See advertisement.)

LOSS OF THE MERCHANT.—Captain T. L. Boss late of the Barque Merchant of this port, with his mate Mr. David Weeden, for whose safety much anxiety was felt by their friends, arrived here on Wednesday morning from Boston, where they had arrived that morning in the Royal Mail Steamer Caladonia from Liverpool. They brought the first news of the loss of their vessel, from which they had a providential escape. The Merchant was lost on the 19th ult., in lat. 44 37 long. 60 58 by being run into about 2 o'clock in the morning by the Royal Mail Steamer Acadia 11 hours from Halifax for Liverpool. The Steamer struck the Merchant between the fore and main rigging—staving bulwarks, rail, plank-shear and stanchions. In about 45 minutes after she was struck the Barque sunk. By the timely assistance of the Steamer, which immediately stopped and sent her boats, the officers and crew were fortunately saved, and taken to Liverpool in the Acadia, where they arrived on the morning of the 28th and the Captain and mate were furnished with accommodations on board the Caladonia which left for Boston on the 5th inst.

The Merchant was 44 days from Amsterdam for this port. She was a new vessel and was insured at the Atlantic Mutual and New York Insurance offices, New York for $17,000.

T. W. Dorr, has been for several days at Abell Hotel in Pawtucket (Mass) it is said with an intention of returning to Providence, giving himself up, and demanding a trial.
It is understood to be the intention of the authorities of this State, that if Mr. Dorr should venture within their jurisdiction, that he shall be at once arrested and committed to Prison.

NAVAL.—U. S. brig Apprentice, last from Portland, passed up the Kennebec River on Monday last.

FROM GUADALOUPE.—Capt. Hinckley, at Boston from Guadalupe, states that shocks of earthquakes, continued to be felt at Pt. Petre. The inhabitants were slowly removing the ruins. Much complaint was made in regard to the distribution of the money received from France, and the United States, &c. Only those owning houses received any thing, and those only in the shape of a loan.

JAMAICA.—An extensive conflagration occurred at Kingston, Jamaica, on the 26th of Augus. Five or six hundred houses were destroyed. The fire is attributed to incendiaries, and a reward of £1000 has been offered for the detection of the incendiary. On the 31st, a colored man was arrested, charged with having threatened to set fire to a house.

ORIN PORTER ROCKWELL, the Mormon confined in our county jail, some time since, for the attempted assassination of Ex Governor Boggs, was indicted by our last grand jury, for escaping from the county jail some time since, and sent to Clay county jail for trial. Owing, however, to some informality in the proceedings, he was remanded to this county again for trial.

There was not sufficient proof adduced against him, to predicate an indictment for shooting Ex Gov. Boggs, and the grand jury therefore did not indict him for that offence.—Missouri Expositor.

The Forgery at Richmond.—The Richmond Star says that young Winston, (whose name is Nathaniel, not Samuel) went to Baltimore in company with one of our principal citizens, who had no suspicion, of course, that he was fleeing under such circumstances of guilt. In Baltimore, he called upon the gentleman to ask that he would accompany him to the house of Mowbray, to get a draft of $600, which he had on them. Cashed—he having refused to pay it unless they had proof that he was the party named on the paper. The proper proof was furnished, and he got the money. It is thought that he had also other large sums with him, and that he forged with the design to escape with the proceeds. He said he was about to purchase shoes, and thought he would keep on to Philadelphia—but the probability is that he took a westerly course. No person in the community probably, would have been less a subject of suspicion, or thought less capable of such a deed, than this foolish, infatuated young man.

BIRTH.—At Edgartown, on Thursday evening last, Mrs. Bethannah Furlong, wife of Mr. Matthew D. Furlong, from the Emerald Isle, was safely delivered of three girls at a birth. They are all doing well.

A PRETTY EXTENSIVE WATERMELON. Capt. Ward, of the Baron, brought from Chicago and presented to us yesterday, one of the richest watermelons we ever tasted, which weighed a trifle less than ninety eight pounds! The shell was large enough to make a respectable yawl boat.—Detroit Daily Ad.

RESPECTED.—The three Winnebago Indians tried recently at Dubuque, Wisconsin, for the murder of the Tragarine family, had all been convicted and sentenced to be hung early in the present month, but the Governor, we understand, on an application for the pardon of two of them, has suspended the execution of all three until the 13th of October next.

Poetry.

All things perish save Virtue.

Sweet morn—so cool, so calm, so bright,
The bride of the earth and sky, Thou shalt weep thy fall to-night,
For thou must die.

"Sweet rose—whose fragrance now I crave, To glad mine sense and joy mine eye, Thy root is ever in its grave,
And thou must die.

Sweet spring—so full of shine and showers,
It makes the weary spirit sigh To think, with all their herbs and flowers, That thou must die.

Sweet music—'e'en the lovely song, Which from my harp in window high Is floating on the breeze along,
'E'en thou must die.

And all the bright and glistening train Of stars that stud the deep blue sky, Must they all they perish—none remain To glad the eye?

And vales and fields, and rushing streams,
And mountains that invade the sky,
Are they as baseless as our dreams?
And must they die?

A man, frail form of senseless clay, Though now his glance is proud & high Perchance upon this passing day He, too, may die!

But the bright soul! that shined within—
The quenchless light in mortal form—Though dimmed by misery and sin, Defies the worm.

When all the stars shall fade away,
And suns in their own blaze expire,
And trackless comets cease to stray With wandering fire—

The soul shall ever live, nor know
The lapse of time, but dwell on high,
And share in endless joy or woe—Eternity.

A SONNET.

BY JOHN N. MAFFITT.

The starry eyes of Heaven are God's Bright lookers down on earth, So sweetly telling us on earth,
How fair is all above:
And every gem on evening's brow,
And every silvery ray,
Are from God's lighted altar thrown
As beacons on our way.
Far up whence those glories spring To fountain pleasures deep, Where sainted shapes of beauty throng And loves pure vigils keep,
There Christian crowns for thee await, Amidst the pure, the good, the great.

A Chronological Account of all material occurrences from the first settlement of RHODE ISLAND.

1713

Samuel Cranston, was re-elected Governor and Walter Clarke, Deputy Governor.

The General Assembly passed an Act, that in future the Military officers should be chosen by the Assembly, and not by the towns as they had been heretofore.

The Assembly met at Warwick in October, and passed a law prohibiting the exportation of Grain from the Colony on account of the shortness of the crops.

On the 30th of March a treaty of Peace, was signed at Utrecht by the plenipotentiaries of England and France. By the principal articles of Peace, the Protestant Succession was acknowledged; the separation of the French & Spanish Crowns; the demolition of Dunkirk; the restoring and enlarging of the British Colonies and Plantations in America; and the session by Spain of Gibraltar, Minorca, and Port Mahon to Great Britain.

This year a man named Michael Courcy came to Rhode Island, he was a native of Ireland, and settled at Newport, where he married and followed for several years the humble occupation of an Oiler. He died leaving his family poor and destitute. Some years after his death it was ascertained that he would have been the legal heir to the title and estates of Lord D'Courcy who had died without any known heirs. His eldest son John Courcy, who had followed a seafaring life, was soon after by the assistance of some of the wealthy inhabitants of Newport, enabled to proceed to Ireland, where after considerable litigation, he fully established his claims, and came into possession of the title and estate of the D' Courcy family, which he enjoyed for many years.

Samuel Cranston was re-elected Governor and Walter Clarke Deputy Governor.

The Soldiers belonging to Newport, who had been on duty at Fort Ann, were ordered to be discharged.

The Assembly repealed all the former laws respecting the Militia, and enacted a new law, better suited to the present condition of the Colony.

The Assembly authorized the Governor to appoint Commissioners to run the line between Rhode Island and Connecticut pursuant to the agreement made in 1703.

Queen Anne, died on the 1st of August, in the 50th year of her age and 13th of her reign.

George I. Elector of Brunswick Lunenburg, succeeded to the Crown, by virtue of an act of Parliament.

Walter Clarke, the Deputy Governor died May 22, aged 75 years.

The Assembly appointed Col. Henry Tow, Deputy Governor in the place of Walter Clarke deceased.

* Gov. Walter Clarke was the son of Jeremiah Clarke, one of the first settlers of Newport. He was Governor of the Colony in the years 1676, 1678, and 1696 and 1697.—He afterwards held the office of Deputy Governor for upwards of 14 years. He was four times married, one of his wives was the widow Freeborn Hart, a daughter of Roger Williams. He died on the 23d of May 1714 in the 75th year of his age leaving five daughters and one son. He was a member of the Society of Friends.

Agricultural.

SEPTEMBER—Extra Work.—Most farmers will find time to do something more this month, than attending to their crops, threshing grain, &c. The improvement of wet meadow & swamp lands should not be neglected. To thoroughly drain, is the first step—and when you have done this, (if the land is not too wet to bear the team.) it is good economy to go further, and by coating with gravel, sand, loam or clay, an inch or two in thickness, kill out at once the meadow grasses, and fix a soil in which better ones may be sowed forthwith. Or better still, where you can do it, plow the meadow when drained, subject it to tillage, and when well pulverized, seed it down to grass.

The higher grounds may be ploughed and seeded down to grass this month—or any time between now and November, though the earliest possible day may be best, unless your grounds are very rich.

While such operations are attended to, do not neglect to get out muck and turf for compost.—N. E. Farmer.

Save your Soap Suds.—There is scarcely a plant that is not benefited by watering with soap suds. It furnishes nutritive matter as well as moisture—keeps off insects, and promotes a rapid growth. The Gard. Chronicle states that while there has been a great failure in the cabbage and cauliflower gardens generally, those watered with soap suds have produced plants of the finest quality, and entirely escaped the injuries inflicted by insects upon others.

Tomato Catsup.—Mash up good sound ripe tomatoes, and to a peck add a pint of salt. Let them stand two days, then strain, and boil the liquor with two ounces black pepper, the same quantity of spice, one ounce of ginger, one of cloves, and half an ounce of mace, until the scum stops rising. Strain, bottle, and cork tight. Some add bruised onions, garlic, horse radish, or mustard, and omit some of the other seasoning. So many condiments are not only unnecessary but unwholesome, especially when all compounded together. A person who has tried it says that green tomatoes are as good as ripe for catsup.

Saving Tomatoes.—The editor of the American Farmer gives the following method. On the approach of frost take up the vines, with the fruit on them, and hang them up under cover in some out house, or dry place, & you will have a large addition to your winter store. The small green fruit will ripen, (as to color,) and the larger ones will prove, at that season of the year, very acceptable. We throw the vines over a pole and place it in our barn, or any convenient place, and there let them hang, taking from the vines the fruit as it is wanted for use.—In this way they keep well, and a large quantity can be secured with a very little labor.

FALES CYPRIAN

HAIR TONIC,

For the Growth, Preservation and Restoration of the Hair.

NO matter how bald a person may be, a growth of hair will be produced, and as naturally too as herbage grows on the plain, or the lily in the valley. This Tonic is warranted to cleanse the hair from Dandruff, and every other accumulating substance. Is your hair dry and falling off?—The Tonic will moisten and fix it firmly in the head. Is your hair thin or your head bald?—The Tonic is warranted to satisfy the largest desire in thickening the hair in the first case and covering the Bald Head with natural hair, in the second.

It is composed of those remedial agents that restore the skin at once to a sound and healthy condition. When thus restored, you will soon discover on the head, a short soft and beautiful growth of young hair, gradually increasing in length, till it becomes like your other hair was before you began to lose it.

FALES' COUGH, WORM, HEADACHE and Diarrhoea or Dysentery LOZENGES are safe, certain and agreeable remedies for the diseases for which they are recommended.

Numerous, speedy and surprising cures have been effected by their use, hence their popularity.

DYOTT'S ORACLE OF HEALTH, (Philadelphia) Says that Fales' Medicated Lozenges are considered by those who have used them, to be far superior to Sherman's or any other introduced into that market.

THE COUGH LOZENGES, are beneficial in all cases of common colds, hooping cough, asthmatic affections, inflammation of the throat and lungs; they are also particularly beneficial for the croup, and a very good substitute for the celebrated HIVE SYRUP, COUGH CANDIES, QUINCY CORDIALS, PULMONARY BALMS, &c.

THE WORM LOZENGES, are a safe and sure remedy for Worms. Two or three is a dose for very small children, and five or six for larger ones.

THE DYSENTERY LOZENGES, are a certain and agreeable remedy for Diarrhoea, and Bowel Complaints of Children.—Full directions as to diet and manner of taking them, accompany each box.

THE HEADACHE or CAMPTOR LOZENGES, are beneficial in cases of nervous headache in febrile affections of a typhus character. They are useful in Rheumatism and peripneumony; also in eruptive diseases, to favor the eruption or bring it back when it has suddenly receded from the skin, as sometimes happens in measles and small pox.

N. B. Be sure that J. J. FALES, M. D., Boston, is on the side of the Box that you buy.

Newport Oct. 15, 1842.

The Most Highly Approved MEDICINE NOW IN GENERAL USE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, AND all diseases of the Lungs.

THE VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALM is believed to be the most popular Medicine ever known in America, for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisis, consumption, whooping cough, and Pulmonary affections of every kind.

Extracts from Certificates.
Dr. Samuel Morrill of Concord, N.H., writes that he is satisfied the Vegetable Pulmonary Balm is a valuable medicine, having been used with complete success in cases which had previously resisted the most approved prescriptions.

Dr. Truman Abell of Lempster, N.H., writes that he confidently recommends its use in all complaints of the chest, as equal, if not superior to any other medicine within his knowledge.

Dr. Amory Hunting, of Franklin, Mass., writes that after having prescribed the usual remedies without relief, and having consulted with several eminent physicians, he has found the Vegetable Pulmonary Balm to have had the desired effect, and recommends it as a safe, convenient and efficacious medicine.

Dr. Thomas Brown, of Concord, N.H., writes that to his knowledge, it has never disappointed the reasonable expectations of those who have used it.

The public are particularly cautioned against the many Counterfeits or Imitations, which have partially or wholly assumed the name of the genuine article.
It is to be assured that it is not genuine unless one or both of the written signatures of SAMUEL REED or WM. JON'S CUTLER, are found attached to a yellow label on a blue envelope. (All labels of and after the date of Dec. 1839, will have the written signature of Wm. Jon's Cutler.) Prepared by REED, WING & CUTLER, (late Low & Reed.) Wholesale Druggists, 34 Chatham Street, Boston, and sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Country Merchants generally. Price 50 cents.

SPENCER'S PILLS, Syrup, and Plaster.

THE numerous proofs daily received of the utility of SPENCER'S VEGETABLE PILLS, not only from professional men, but also from individuals, previously unknown to the proprietor, many of them guardians and instructors of youth, who speak from personal knowledge, together with the rapid sale, completely satisfies him that he has not been deceived. Those recommendations have fully sustained it as a certain cure for the headache, as also a sure remedy for many other complaints it used according to the directions which accompany them.

LUCINA CORDIAL.

MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, for the cure of speedy and cure of incipient consumption, barrenness, impotency, leucorrhoea or whites, gleet, obstructed, difficult or painful menstruation, incontinence of urine, or involuntary discharge thereof, and for the general prostration of the system no matter whether the result, of inherent causes, or of causes produced by irregularity, illness, or accident.

The wide spread celebrity of this wonderful and inestimable cordial in both hemispheres is a sufficient guarantee for its quick and positive success in curing all the above affections and complaints. Nothing can be more surprising than its invigorating effects on the human frame. Persons all weakness and lassitude, be fore taking it, at once become robust and full of energy under its influence. It immediately counteracts the nervousness or looseness of the female frame, which is the only cause of barrenness, and which, prior to Dr. Magnin's discovery, was considered to be incurable.—And it speedily removes the impediments produced by prostration, which frequently deter men from getting married. Language, indeed, cannot do justice to the merits of the Lucina Cordial, which is regarded by the heads of the faculty in all parts of the world as one of the most important medical discoveries of any age. Price $3 per bottle. Sold at No. 142 Thames Street, Newport.

FANCY and Staple Dry Goods, at reduced prices, at No. 132, by J. M. COOK & CO.

Those Laboring Under

sickness can at once relieve themselves from the thousand maladies that flesh is heir to if they will only follow the counsels of nature, and take the medicine which best assists her in her operations. That medicine is the Vegetable Life Medicines of Dr. Moffat. The wonderful and miraculous cures which his Life Pills and Phoenix Bitters have everywhere performed, place them before all other medicines ever offered to the public. Composed entirely of vegetable substances they overcome the disease without corrupting the blood or weakening and destroying the constitution. Their nature is such that when taken into the stomach they are digested like other food, and are distributed throughout the whole system, giving additional strength to the solid parts, and purifying and restoring the weak and diseased. They not only act as a purgative in cleansing the bowels of all impurities, but they open the pores of the whole body, assist and promote all the animal secretions, and give a healthy vigor to the whole system. This is not idle declamation uttered without truth and only for effect, but is fully corroborated by innumerable letters and certificates which daily pour in upon the proprietor of the Vegetable Life Pills, from thousands who are grateful for a recovery of their health—a recovery which all other remedies had failed to procure them, and which they despaired of ever receiving. It is thus fully proved that the operations of nature are simple, and that disease of all kinds may easily be eradicated if the right course is taken to effect their cure. That course, we repeat, is to use Dr. Moffat's Life Pills and Phoenix Bitters. The beneficial results they produce on the human system are apparent as soon as their use is commenced. A single box cannot be taken without giving a relief to the sufferer which will convince him of their efficacy. All who value their health, their time, and their money, will at least try the Life Medicines when attacked with sickness. Being composed entirely of vegetables no injury can possibly arise from such a trial, and once tried they will forever supersede the necessity of a physician's services, or a physician's exorbitant charges.

DR. PETERS' Medicated Lozenges.

PETERS' COUGH LOZENGES are now rapidly superseding all other preparations for the relief of coughs, colds, asthma, whooping coughs, tightness of the chest, bronchitis, and similar pulmonary affections.

Peters' Cordial Lozenges

Are a specific for the relief of nervous or sick headache, lowness of spirits, or melancholy, languor and debility, either from previous disease or too free living, tremors, spasms of the stomach, irritability of the nerves, hysterical affection, drowsiness, cholera morbus, sense of fatigue and palpitation of the heart. From their efficacy in the relief of headache, they are called by many the Headache Lozenges.

Peters' Worm Lozenges.

These are the desiderata so long required. They are so perfectly pleasant to the taste and gentle in their operations, that they may be fearlessly administered to the youngest infant, and yet no medicine heretofore discovered can be named in comparison with it as a destroyer of worms.

Peters' Cathartic or Health Lozenge.

These lozenges will be found perfectly efficient, speedy, and safe in their operation. They purify the system, purge the blood of every noxious substance, restore the functions of the whole animal economy, and leave the individual with a reinvigorated constitution.

As an alternative medicine, Peters' Health Lozenge stands unrivalled. On the approach of warm weather in the Spring they may be taken by all with decided benefit; often preventing a protracted sickness.

Peter's Vegetable Shilling Strengthening Plaster.

This is not only the cheapest, but the best, neatest, and most comfortable plaster in existence.

Peters' Shilling Plaster is an easy and most effective remedy for pain in the breast, side, or stomach, weakness or pain in the chest, loins, or back, stiffness of the neck, affections of the limbs or joints, whether produced by rheumatism or other causes, habitual pain of the head or stomach, piles, colds, coughs, liver complaints, weakness of the spine, predisposition to break out in boils and pimples, listlessness of the frame; and for general debilitation.

Let any person afflicted as above try one of Peters' Shilling Plasters, and we will venture to say that he could not be prevailed on to discard it again, for ten, or most probably for a hundred dollars. Price 12 1/2 cents.

To the Whole World!

PETERS' PILLS.—It is admitted by all who have used them (and who has not?) that Dr. Peters' Vegetable Pills are the most unrivalled medicine ever discovered by the ingenuity of man. They are a sovereign cure for the following complaints:—Yellow and bilious fevers, fever and ague, dyspepsia, croup, liver complaint, sick headache, jaundice, asthma, dropsy, rheumatism, enlargement of the spleen, piles, colic, female obstructions, heartburn, furred tongue, nausea, distension of the stomach and bowels, incipient diarrhoea, flatulency, habitual costiveness, loss of appetite, bloated or sallow complexion, and all cases of torpor of the bowels, where a cathartic or an aperient is needed.

They are exceedingly mild in their operation, producing neither nausea, griping or debility. Price 25 cents a box.

NEWPORT STEAM Planing, Sawing & Grist MILL.

THIS establishment is now in successful operation, in Bull street, and prepared to execute all kinds of work usually done at similar concerns.

The PLANING MACHINE is new; and, possessing advantages over most of the machines in use at the present day, is prepared to furnish specimens of work, equal at least to those of any other establishment in the United States.

CIRCULAR, and UPRIGHT SAWS, for splitting boards, plank and timber, and fitting various kinds of lumber for carpenters' use, are also attached.

The GRIST MILL comprises two pair of French Burr Mill Stones, which are now in such high repute and general use throughout the country.

As it can hardly be expected in first starting an establishment of this kind, in this place, that the patronage will be sufficient to warrant the hope of steady employ, and that the public may depend upon having work done at stated times, without disappointment, we propose to start the mill every Tuesday morning, and keep it running three days in each week—say Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—and occasionally other days of the week, as circumstances may require.

In thus establishing what we believe has been long needed in Newport, and which all must acknowledge to be a great benefit to the public, individually and at large, both by securing to our townsmen the employment which has heretofore been bestowed upon the mechanics of other places, and effecting within our own community what we have been dependent for upon every community in the neighborhood, we need only ask of our townsmen such encouragement as the merits of our concern may entitle us to expect.

At a Town Council, holden Newport, August, 7th 1843.

WHEREAS, a petition was presented to this Town Council, praying said Council to declare the highway or street in said Newport, leading from Barney street to Bull street, on which said highway or street, the Roman Catholic Chapel now fronts Easterly; to be a public highway, as is provided in the 7th section of an act of the General Assembly of this State, entitled, "An Act for laying out highways," the said highway or street having been quietly, peaceably and actually used and improved, and considered a public highway or street, for the space of twenty years and upwards; the said petition being read, and there being no persons interested in, or who have any claim to the land, over which said highway or street passes, known residing in this State, or without this State,

It is ordered, that said petition be received, and the consideration thereof be referred to a Town Council, to be holden at the Town Hall in Newport, on the 1st Monday in October next, at 9 o'clock a. m. and that notice be given by publishing a copy of this order, three weeks successively in the Newport Mercury, to the intent that all persons interested, may have an opportunity to show cause, why such proceedings as are authorized as aforesaid, should not be had.
